I have never really had a fixed time for shooting, and that is why I carry my camera everywhere I go. It's one of those things for me, where you never know what might capture your attention. I majored in Digital Cinema from DePaul University Chicago. I'm currently working towards writing, directing and producing my first feature film.

John Hancock Tower from Edgewater, Chicago Illinois (2017)

Old Town/ Gold Coast, Chicago, Illinois (2016) - I love trying to capture cityscapes, and on this day, after a few hours of editing a film, the sun had just come out after some rain. We expected some more rain, but I was just able to capture the sun breaking through the cloud cover.
